Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

In recent years, greenhouse gas emissions, resource depletion, environmental pollution, and other social issues have raised awareness of sustainable development. Many companies have been reevaluating and adjusting their strategies in operations management and logistics activities to strike a better balance between their economic effectiveness and environmental sustainability.

Therefore, the Special Issue aims to contribute to providing innovative theoretical methods and empirical findings to operations, shared manufacturing, and logistics management in order to realize sustainable and green development goals. This Special Issue welcomes the submission of literature reviews, conceptual theory developments, optimization models and algorithms, and empirical studies.

The topics of interest include, but are not limited to:

Sustainable production planning and scheduling;
Shared manufacturing modes and algorithms;
Green supply chain management;
Green logistics operation;
Reverse logistics;
Sustainable supply chain and COVID-19 pandemic;
